

Luke 10:25-37 (David Mearns) 206568

Scranton Conference: 2014, Fallen Among Thieves (10:25-37)

Address—David Mearns

I so appreciated the way these meetings commenced this morning. We sang 281. I'd like to sing it again. Trust what we'll do this afternoon. If the Lord leaves us here, we'll sing this hymn. We'll follow up by making a comment or two on the portion that John read to us in the prayer meeting from First Chronicles Chapter 4. Then perhaps make a comment or two with regards to what we had in our reading this morning, all as preparatory comments for what the Lord has laid on my heart from the book of Luke. So I wonder if we could this afternoon Open by singing 281. Touched with a sympathy within. He knows our feeble frame. He knows what Soros trials mean. For he has felt the same. If someone could please start 281. With joy. And.

clickbible.org